MEN AID MEN.

"Business is business," but men are men.
Loving and working, dreaming, toiling with pencil or spade or pen.
Rollstering, planning, scheming.
"Business is business,"—but he's a fool
Whose business has grown to smother
His faith in men and the Golden Rule.
He loves for friend and brother.
"Business is business,"—but life is life;
Though we're all in the game to win it,
Let's rest sometimes from the heat and strife
And try to be friends a minute.
Let's seek to be comrades now and then
And slip from our golden tether.
"Business is business," but men are men
And we're all good pals together! —Oceanogram

PEDDLERS AND PEDDLERS

PENDLETON merchants have a right to insist that they be protected from the unfair competition of professional peddlers. They have no right, nor do they assert any, to ask that farmers be restricted by license from selling their produce from house to house.

There is a distinction between the professional peddler and the producer who peddles what he raises, and this distinction should be sharply drawn in any ordinance which the city passes for the regulation of peddling.

The professional peddler pays no taxes, pays no rent and is not called upon to contribute to public enterprises such as are the merchants every week of the year. More often than not the professional peddler sells inferior stuff or short weight stuff at prices much lower than the merchant asks for better grade stuff. He is more or less of a migratory citizen, for generally his practices will not permit of him remaining long where he becomes known.

On the other hand the small farmer and gardener many times finds it necessary to sell from house to house if he is to realize any returns from his crop. To require a license from him would be to do him an injustice for he is a producing citizen who should be encouraged.

The merchants in petitioning the council made it plain that they are not objecting to this latter class of peddling. The difficulty lies in drawing a distinction that will permit of the enforcement of the purpose of the ordinance. There should be some way of reaching the one class without infringing upon the rights of the other and there are doubtless wise enough heads in the city to find the way.

ABORIGINAL ART

At a time when the obstacles to importation of German dyes for textile goods is causing annoyance and loss to our manufacturers it is interesting to learn that the native industry of the Clayquot tribe of Indians in British Columbia is flourishing apace. These people produce their bright colored fabrics with jet black dye from the mud of the swamps, red and pink from alder bark, brown from hemlock, yellow from the root of the grape; and so other tints from natural resources, just as their forefathers for generations back.

Something may be learned from these examples of aboriginal art; they have practised it for ages with entire success and the approval of native critics. Were they to patent the process, they might find place as rivals of Germany.—Boston Post.

That cowboy shooting episode at the Indian round-up was timed just right. Celebrators at the Rose Festival where the sheriff of Umatilla county and president of the Round-Up is king will think that he comes from a real wild and wooly town.

What will the day bring forth in Chicago? Many are hoping and many are fearing but all are expecting that it will bring forth T. Roosevelt as a presidential nominee.

"Pendleton is putting on a Rose Show in Portland," is the way several traveling men characterized the Portland festivities.
